BROADWAY THEATER.

Joseph King's New Version East Lynne

East Lynne is an old play, but it is one of the best. Joseph King's company will appear in it at the Broadway theater tonight and a fine performance is assured. The story of East Lynne is a tale of love and hate.

Lady Isabel is married to Archibald Carlyle and, though in love with her husband, is in love with another man, the jealous and ambitious Archibald Carlyle.

Her jealousy is fanned into hatred by a designing villain, Sir Francis Lyndal, who, after several years of married life, is induced to leave her husband through the false representations of Lyndal.

Miserable and alone, she goes to her former husband's home in the guise of a French governess and is enabled to see and be with her husband, though unable to re-establish herself as his wife, for on her desertion Archibald married Barbara Hare.

She finds some solace and comfort, however, in the care of her children. The death of the oldest undermines her own health and, finding herself at death's door, she reveals her former husband, discloses her identity and with his forgiveness passes into the Great Beyond.

BREED THEATER.

Another picture triumph for the Breed theater this week is the special reel showing the championship ball game between the Pittsburg and Detroit teams, and is one of the clearest and most complete pictures seen here in a long time. The several players are shown separately and include Adams, Mullen, Jennings, Clark, Wagner and others, each in the various capacities, and in characteristic attitudes, showing their peculiar mannerisms and being taken near enough to be recognized by all who are familiar with the game. All of the great plays are shown, also splendid views of grandstands, with its record attendance, and the very extensive grounds.

Another ball picture is shown, but it is a comedy game between two scrub teams, and the novelty of the whole picture depends upon the picture machine being turned instantly after the umpire's decision towards the bleachers, and the expression of the fans is a most interesting study of human nature, according as they agree or disagree with the umpire.

Miss Wolcott sang with much sweetness and precision the pretty song "In Dreamland, little winning the house by her charming rendition of the quaintly pathetic Swanee River, making a reputation necessary.

Complimentary Dinner.

Arthur Fifoot, supervisor of the automobile registration in the office of the secretary of state, was the guest Wednesday night of twenty-five republican workers in the Ninth district of Bridgeport, who tendered him a farewell complimentary dinner in the breakfast room at the Stratfield, Bridgeport. William Powell Frith, the oldest of British painters, died in London recently. Had he lived until Jan. 9 he would have been 91 years old, for he was born in 1819, four months before Queen Victoria, during whose reign he was perhaps the most distinctly representative of the story telling school of British art, so much depreciated in these latter days.

A Scalded Boy's Shrieks

horrified his grandmother, Mrs. Maria Taylor, of Nebo, Ky., who writes that when all thought he would die, but then she learned that he was cured. Her son, John, was scalded by boiling water. He was cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He is now a healthy boy.

A Religious Author's Statement.
Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment, and I passed same frequently. I was finally cured by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy and the pain gradually abated, and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy."
